

The Power of Sound: One-Day Workshop

A one-day workshop equipping you to make the most of audio as a communication tool

The Power of Sound is a hands-on workshop to equip you to work as audio gatherers. You will be taught the skills you need to collect stories, case studies and other relevant audio material that can be used to promote the work of your organisation. You will also gain practical experience of simple editing, creating MP3 files, uploading audio to a website and setting up a regular podcast.

The workshop is delivered by professionals with extensive experience in working with audio. The lead trainer is former BBC producer Jude Habib.

Course Content

- Telling Stories: a creative session to explore ideas and formats for audio appropriate for your organisation, including podcasting
- Developing your interview skills
- How to use audio equipment to collect audio content
- How to carry out basic editing on a PC-based editing system
- How to turn material into an MP3 file or podcast and upload it to a website

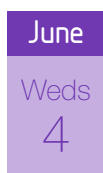

By the end of the day you will have a clear idea of how audio can work for your organisation and will be confident in your use of audio equipment. A Facebook group will be available for course participants to share their experiences and ideas after the event.

Who should attend? Group size: 8 -10 people per workshop
